

THE DAILY BULLETIN.

SATURDAY EVENING, MAY 31, 1884.

ROSSER & McCARTHY
Publishers and Proprietors,
To Whom Address All Communications

Unto the people old and young,
We send this notice greeting,
To-morrow don your Sunday clothes
And take your place in meeting.
And mind you take the parson's words
To heart and make them stick,
And thus you may release the grip
Upon you by Old Nick.

A LARGE number of old papers are for sale at this office.

CAPTAIN LINTON and Mr. Joseph Insko are building neat residences at Aberdeen.

STEEL rails are being laid on the Kentucky Central between Helena and Johnson.

The Republican is having its little joke. Even a coffin has a right to dance occasionally if it wants to.

VACATION time is fast approaching, and the school children are happy in the anticipation of its pleasures.

So far as we have heard no damage was done to any of the crops in this neighborhood by the recent frost.

The contract for furnishing the Music at the Germantown fair has been awarded to Hauke's band, of this city.

Match Game.

The Dayton and Maysville base ball clubs will play a match game at the grounds, Monday evening at half past two o'clock.

The graves of the Confederate soldiers at the cemetery were decorated with flowers by a committee of ladies this morning. The annual meeting of the Confederate Survivors' Association for the election of officers takes place this afternoon.

On Friday, about eleven o'clock, Mrs. John Steers, of Lewisburg, while attending to her chickens, received a blow upon the head from a falling board, which laid her senseless. She was carried into the house and remained speechless until about four or five o'clock that evening, but since that time she has been able to talk and is getting much better. Dr. Wm. P. Dobyns, the attending physician, thinks there was a slight concussion of the brain.

The services of decoration day, although formal ceremonies, possess yet a deep significance. As the comrades in arms call to mind the scenes of the camp, the bivouac and the battle, and brighten with flowers the graves of their lost companions, they remind us that the fellowship of danger forms the strongest and most enduring friendship. The acquaintance met and loved perhaps at the banquet, the carouse, or the watering place, is soon forgotten, while the associate in the desert, the encounter and the shipwreck, lives in remembrance.

DEcoration day was appropriately observed yesterday by Joseph Heiser Post, No. 13, Grand Army of the Republic. There was a grand procession through the streets with music and a number of wagons containing young ladies who formed a choir for the occasion. Mr. Thomas A. Davis delivered the address at the cemetery to a large number of hearers. It was an interesting one and full of information interesting to his audience. The address closed with the following sentiment:

If there was glory in the Confederate charges at Malvern Hills, that glory belongs to the American soldier! If there was heroism in the stemming and stopping the Confederate tide at Gettysburg, that heroism adds luster to the American name! And to-day, in the very presence of the noble dead of both armies, with the clouds of war rolled away and the sunlight of prosperity and happiness in every home, we as Americans—the "Boys in Blue" and the "Boys in Gray"—renew our fealty to the Old Flag, and marching shoulder to shoulder once more, sing in glad acclaim—

"Forever float that standard sheet,
Where breathes the foe but falls before us;
With freedom's soul we clutch our text,
And freedom's banner streaming o'er us!"

The Churches.

Services will be held as usual at St. Patrick's Church, to-morrow.

Rev. A. Boring will occupy the pulpit at the M. E. Church to-morrow morning and evening.

Rev. J. A. Henderson will preach at the M. E. Church, South, to-morrow morning and evening.

Rev. R. B. Garrett will preach at the Baptist Church, to-morrow morning and evening, at the usual hours.

Rev. W. T. Jolly will preach at the Mayslick Baptist Church to-morrow, at eleven a. m., and at Washington at 3:30 p. m.

Rev. A. N. Gilbert will be assisted in the services at the Christian church to-morrow morning by Rev. W. J. Pettigrew, formerly of Richmond, Va., more recently of California, who will preach both morning and night. Mr. Pettigrew is recognized as one of the leading pulpit orators of the Christian church. The public is cordially invited.

COMMUNICATED.

What sly fellows these prospective candidates for office are, anyhow! How shrewdly do they move! How cautiously, how closely do they observe things, political! They never openly advocate a real out-and-out candidate's claim until they have "rounded to" and taken a close observation to see what effect such advocacy might have on their own bearings in the "sweet bye and bye," when they themselves shall have "blossomed out" as seekers after political favors. Isay they—these prospective candidates, these fellows who may have "axes of their own to grind" some of these days in the future—never let one's qualifications for the office he seeks decide the question as to whether that one shall receive their support or not. They never examine into the fitness for the position aspired to and capability of discharging efficiently the duties of the office sought after. Oh, no! Not much. Or if they do, it's a secondary consideration with them, instead of being the first as well as the last and only thing inquired into. To illustrate our point, let us take the present race for the Appellate Judgeship in this district. Let us suppose that Riddell's and Moore's qualifications for the office were the same. Grant that each is as well fitted for the position sought as the other, that the one is just as able to discharge, in an efficient and satisfactory manner, the duties of the office as the other may be. Moore happens to be in this Congressional district. Riddell hails from from a mountain country that lies in another district (Congressional). Now, during the late canvass in this county, if these prospective candidates for office, these sly fellows who are looking far ahead yonder into the future and gazing with wistful and longing eyes at the office now held by W. W. Culbertson, I say when these fellows were approached on the subject prior to the late convention, their reply invariably was, "We're not for Riddell. Moore's our man." "Why?" "Oh just because Moore's in our Congressional district, that's all. We haven't anything against Riddell, only he's not in this district (Congressional) and Moore is." That's the talk these fellows who may have "axes of their own to grind" some of these days would give you. The question with them wasn't "which of these two (Riddell or Moore) has the best qualifications." On the contrary it was, "which of them can do the most for me when I want an office."

To carry out my point, suppose A. and B. were the candidates for the Appellate Judgeship, A from Riddell's county and B from Moore's, and suppose A. to be preeminently qualified for the office in all respects, and B's abilities on the other hand, to be of the most ordinary standard. The cry of these prospective candidates, I hold, would be the same in this case. "We're for B," they would say. He's in our congressional district. A can't help us out when we want an office, at least he can't do us as much good as B, if we should ever want to run for congress." It's never a question of fitness for the office, ability to discharge its duties, or of qualifications, with these prospective office hunters. I had a little talk with one these fellows the other day. We were speaking of last Saturday's convention, and he wound up by explaining why Mason county ought to support Moore. He said: Suppose we hadn't instructed for Moore last Saturday, don't you think Moore's friends up in Boyd county would have remembered it?" "Why of course they would, and if we had gone back on Moore last Saturday here in Mason, those fellows up in Boyd never would have helped us out in a race for congress. If we had chosen Riddell delegates, and then one of us had seen fit to run for congress next fall, and gone to Boyd for help, those fellows up there would have said, no; we can't do you any good. You went back on our man Moore, when he wanted to be Appellate Judge. I understand that this fellow is himself a candidate for congress, or if not one now, expects to be some time in the future and that explains why he helped Moore out in the late convention. It is the interests of "No. 1," with such fellows every time, against the "good of the country, and it is not necessary to say which weighs the heaviest. But "such is life. ASHLEY.

From the Proud Standpoint of superior "style," the languid city beauty surveys the imaginary physical short-comings of her rustic female cousin.

Yet if the latter possesses a finer set of teeth, as she probably does if she uses sozodont, and the metropolitan belle does not, that striking contrast so much in her favor enables her to turn the tables with a vengeance. Pearly teeth are better than "style."

Nervousness, nervous debility, neuralgia, nervous shock, St. Vitus Dance, prostration, and all diseases of nerve generative organs, are all permanently and radically cured by Allen's Brain Food, the great botanical remedy. $1 package, six for $5.
